AN EXPLOSION KILLED SEVEN

Forward Turret of Battleship Kearsage Scene of Horror.

DETAILS NOT KNOWN

The War Vessel Had Just Completed Target Practice When Accident Occurred.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE DISASTER.

Washington, April 16.—The navy department Sunday received a telegram from Admiral Brownson reporting that Joseph W. Graeme, gun umpire, was injured in the explosion aboard the battleship Kearsarge in Cuban waters Friday, is dead; that the condition of William King, ordinary seaman, and Frederick T. Fisher, chief gunners mate, is grave and that all others injured in that disaster are doing well.

The death of Lieutenant Graeme, which the dispatch says occurred Saturday, increases the death list of the disaster to seven persons in all, two of whom were commissioned officers. Acting Secretary of the Navy Newbury Sunday received a dispatch from the father of Lieutenant Graeme, at Wilkes-Barre, and it was his wish and those of the family of Lieutenant John Hudgins, the other officer killed, that their bodies be sent to this country on the first available vessel. Similar action will be taken regarding the bodies of the seamen killed if their families or next of kin desire that this be done.

With relation to the accident a telegram from Washington under date of April 14, gave these particulars:

The ignition of three sections of a charge for a 13-inch gun in the forward turret of the battleship Kearsarge, in the vicinity of Guantanoamo, Cuba, Saturday afternoon resulted in the death of one officer and five men and the probably fatal injury of a second officer and another enlisted man. Lieutenant John M. Hudgins, whose home is in Washington, was the officer killed and Lieutenant Joseph W. Graeme, attached to the United States steamship Maryland, who was acting as gun umpire at the time of the accident, is the officer who was injured. Lieutenant Graeme was transferred to the Maryland Saturday night at 9 o'clock. The Kearsarge had just completed target practice at the time of the accident.

The news of the accident came to the navy department late Sunday afternoon in a dispatch from Captain Herbert Winslow, commanding the Kearsarge. Beyond the announcement of what had happened and the names of those who were killed and injured, the dispatch contained few details. It seems clear, however, that there was not an explosion, and it is presumed that the smokeless powder burned up, suffocating or burning to death the men within the turret.

A charge for a 13 inch rifle is composed of four sections. According to Captain Winslow's message one section of the charge in the gun, used to carry powder from the handling room below the turrets, remained intact. Upon these details the theory is based that there was not an explosion, as both the section of powder within the gun and the charge in the lift below would have been ignited, causing the death of many more men and probably completwrecking the forward part of the vessel.

The cause of the accident, according to Captain Winslow, has not been determined, but an investigation is now under way. Just where the Kearsarge was the time of the accident is not made clear in the dispatch, but it was probably at Mananiilo Bay, about 150 miles west of Guantanamo, where nearly all the vessels of the Atlantic fleet have been engaged in target practice since April 1st. This idea is further substantiated by the fact that Captain Winslow was unable to get a report to Washington until more than twenty-four hours after the accident happened. It is supposed that as soon as possible following the ignition of the explosives Captain Winslow made for Guantanamo and from there he made his report. His dispatch to the navy department is as follows:

"On April 13th about 3.15 p. m. shortly after completion of target practice on the Kearsarge in the forward turret, while powder was going below three sections of a 13-inch charge were ignited. Charge of powder in other lift just below and one section inside 13-inch remained intact. Cause not yet determined, accountability (sic). Matter is being investigated. Lieutenant Joseph W. Graeme gun umpire, sent to the Maryland in a very critical state about 9 p. m. The following have since died: Lieutenant Hudgins, turret officer; Peter Norberg, gunner's mate; Theodore Nasgely, seaman; Anton O. Thorson, ordinary seaman; Julius A. Koester, turret captain, first class; Ellis H. Athey, seaman. Following was dangerously injured by accident recovery doubtful, W. King, sea man. Will bury at Guantanamo. Vessel uninjured:"

First Step Broke Ankles.

Believing that she could walk out into the back yard and enjoy the beautiful sunshine, Mrs. Ann Milligan, of Seaford, Del., an invalid for twenty-seven years, during which time she has never been able to sit up and take a step attempted to get up and walk.

She hobbled a few yards and fell. Her daughter-in-law, hearing her cries, hastened to the room, to find her mother lying helpless on the floor. She got her back in the bed and it was found that both of her ankles were broken. This was the first time that the woman had been out of bed since 1879.

When asked why she attempted to walk she exclaimed that for the first time in twenty-seven years she felt as though she could walk out and enjoy the beautiful sunshine.

Fire at Jersey Shore.

Jersey Shore had a $1,700 blaze at a late hour last Friday night, and it was only by the good work of the fire department that greater destruction was averted.

The fire broke out about 11 o'clock in one of two structures owned by Carson Williams, at the foot of Thompson street, in the First ward, formerly used as tobacco sheds, but for several years as storage warehouses, and this building and another of Mr. Williams' were destroyed. A structure used for storage proposes, owned by C. B. Seely, also fell prey to the flames.

Mr. Williams' loss is about $1,200, with no insurance, and Mr. Seely's about $500, with $200 insurance. It is not known how the fire originated.

Kicked Neighbor to Death.

Allentown, Pa., April 16.—Before Judge Heydt, at Mauch Chunk, George W. D. Dentinger, of Weissport, accused of murder, pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in killing William H. Oswald, a neighbor, in January. Dentinger, who is 24 years old, came home at night and found Oswald, a married man, in a compromising position with his mother. In the quarrel that followed Dentinger kicked Oswald out of the house. He died next day. Indignation ran high at the time, and Dentinger was threatened with lynching. Judge Heydt sentenced him to four months in jail.

Strikers Try to Murder Workman.

Hazleton, Pa., April 16th.—An attempt was made to murder Frank McSerno, the son of a stripping boss, at his home at Bunker Hill. Three shots were fired through a window, narrowly missing the intended victim. McSerno has continued at work during the suspension of mining, and says that he was threatened by union men. There is no clue to the would-be murderers.

Sheriff of Blair County Dead.

Altoona, Pa., April 17.—After a year's illness with chirosis of the liver, Thomas Bell, high sheriff of Blair county, died at his farm south of Altoona. Sheriff Bell was aged 61 years, came of a prominent family and was serving his third term as sheriff. Coroner W. T. Blackburn will become the sheriff.

Will Explore Antarctic Regions.

London, April 16. — Lieutenant Barne, who accompanied Captain Robert F. Scott on his antarctic expedition, has formulated an expedition to explore the unknown region of Grahamland, on the opposite side of the Antarctic from that explored by the Discovery.

THREE STRIKERS KILLED

The Somerset County Town Scene of an Outbreak.

FIGHT AT THE LOCKUP

State Constabulary Summoned, but Held Up by Wreck on Main Line.

BOY DIES OF A SERIOUS WOUND,

Johnstown, April 17.—A riot occurred at Windber last evening between 7 and 8 o'clock between striking miners and others, and as the result of shooting by deputies three men were killed, Mining Engineer Eugene Delaney dangerously injured, a boy shot through the bowels so that he will die, and several men were wounded.

The affair took place in front of the Windber lockup. A crowd of striking miners had assembled there and among them came some men who had contrary views concerning the Windber situation.

Some differences of opinion which had arisen at the afternoon mass meeting was taken up by men who had been celebrating Easter Monday by getting drunk. Pretty soon there was a fight in progress.

Deputies made their appearance and in an attempt to quell the riot made several arrests. It happened that the men arrested were all union men and their fellows at once raised the cry that they were being imposed upon by the officers. When the officers tried to take the men to the lockup the union men interfered.

Around the doors of the lockup there was a perfect jam. An attempt was made to take the men away from the officers. The latter, it is said, found it necessary to fire to protect themselves. Then the miners who had arms began to shoot also, and before the fusilade ended three men were dead; one boy shot through the bowels so that he will die and several men has been taken to the hospital wounded.

The names of the dead and injured are unobtainable, except that of Eugene Delaney, the Berwind-White company's chief mining engineer, who is shot through the head and is in the hospital.

Nearly all, if not all, the dead and injured are strikers, and all foreigners except Delaney.

The bodies were still lying in the street at 8 o'clock last evening. The strikers refused to allow Undertaker Meek, who is the company undertaker, to move them.

The above story was the first confused report over the wires. Later it was said that the shooting was done by the deputies when the strikers were stoning the lockup, where they had been incarcerated several men arrested during the afternoon meeting.

It is said the deputies on the ground are really Pinkerton men.

Sheriff Begley has been summoned to Winber, and Governor Pennypacker has been telegraphed to asking him to send the state constabulary.

At 9 o'clock last night Winber was in a furore of excitement. More trouble is expected.

The company of the state constabulary stationed at Greensburg is now on its way to Winber, and is expected there at any time.

Sudden Death.

While everyone was in church and none but he was in the house, Harvey Stover, age 62 and a life long resident of Aaronsburg, on Sunday afternoon passed to the great beyond with a stroke of paralysis. He was one of the most highly respected citizen in Aaronsburg and his sudden death, although feared for some time before hand has cast a gloom over the entire community.

He is survived by a wife, seven daughters and two sons and is the son-in-law of Claude Kreamer of this place. The deceased ha dbeen in failing health for several years and all that kind and loving hands can accomplish was tried on him to prolong his life, but to no avail when at the above mentioned time he passed to where no worldly pain or sorrow exists and where peace reigns. He was a devoted father and a faithful member of the Evangelical Church. Funeral this morning at Wolf's Chapel.

TERRIBLE EARTHQUAKE

(Special to the Republican)

San Francisco, March 18, 1906.—An earthquake here at 5:13 this morning wrecking several buildings and wrecking our office. They are carting the dead from the falling buildings. Fire all over the town. No water. We lost our power. I am going to get out of the office. We get a little shake every few minutes.

"R" Office, San Francisco, Cal.,

That Mysterious Survey.

Residents along Bald Eagle valley are busy these days wondering why a large corps of engineers are busy running lines through the valley. They are in charge of a veteran civil engineer, says the Tyrone Herald, who has never a word to say about what they are doing or who it is being done for. But the work is going on nevertheless and all manner of speculation is rife. Some think it is a plan to double track and secure a new grade for the Bald Eagle Valley, others say it is a part of a Wabash plan, a few have connected it with the scheme for Philadelphia and Western that was spoken of so much in the Philadelphia papers a few days ago. Whatever it may be for the engineers are working on an old survey made many years ago. They started it about the old Baird tannery in Milesburg and are running east along the old tow path to the vicinity of Curtins Works where they have crossed over to the north side of the valley and are working on towards Lock Haven.

Many Killed by Earthquake.

Tokio, April 17.—One hundred and nine persons are known to have been killed and 29 persons injured in the earthquake in the southern part of the island of Formosa last Saturday, but further details, it is expected, will swell the death roll, as the shock was more severe than that of March 17.

The town of Kagi again was the principal sufferer, the house which escaped destruction in the former disturbance being now in ruins. Doko and several other towns and villages also were affected by landslides, which have completely changed the topography of the country. The officials are working feverishly to relieve the thousands of persons left homeless by the earthquake. Terrible scenes are reported around Kagi and Doko.

Hanging Abolished in New Jersey.

Governor Stokes Wednesday signed Senator Wakelee's bill substituting electrocution for hanging in New Jersey after March 1, 1907.

"This is a good law," said the governor as he signed the bill. "I have always believed hanging to be a brutal method of taking life in capital crimes."

Up to the last minute efforts were made by opponents of the bill to have it recalled and amended in the legislature so as to prevent a condemned person being dragged across the state on the day of execution to an isolated place, to be designated by the state prison keeper. This objectionable feature, termed the "death trap," nearly caused a defeat of the bill.

Typhoid Epidemic Spreading

Pittsburg, Pa., April 16th.—Pittsburg's epidemic of typhoid fever, while apparently decreasing in the daily number of cases reported, appears to be spreading to the surrounding municipalities. Towns along the Ohio river below Pittsburg are beginning to report typhoid cases in alarming numbers, and instructions have been issued by various local boards of health in these places to use no water out of the Ohio river for drinking purposes unless it had been boiled.

Hon. P. M. Lytle Re-Appointed.

Hon. P. M. Lytle, was Thursday reappointed by President Roosevelt to be Surveyor of the Port of Philadelphia. Mr. Lytle's second term expired on the 4th inst. His official record was first class, and in accordance with the President's policy of retaining competent men in office, he gave Mr. Lytle another term of four years. Mr. Lytle's appointment was recommended by Senator Penrose. We extend congratulations and offer best wishes

ROOSEVELT'S FUTURE!

May be a Candidate for the Presidency in the Year 1912

WILL STICK TO HIS WORD

And Will Retire from the Office at the End of His Present Term

HE MAY GO BACK AS U. S. SENATOR

Washington, April 18.—President Roosevelt will probably be a candidate to succeed his successor in 1912. There is no doubt in the minds of the president's friends that he intends to stick to his determination to retire from the executive chair at the end of his present term. By the end of the present term the president has told some of his most intimate friends, he believes that he will have made so many enemies that he would be an easy man to beat were his party to make him its standard bearer at that time. From now on until the end of his term, as the president has put it, he will be obliged to be "very harsh to many interests." The public good will demand his administering certain policies with little sympathy for those who differ with him, and the inevitable result of this iron handed course will be the creation of "sore heads."

However, the president's friends believe that people of his own state, or, at any rate the dominating faction of the republican party in New York, will elect him to the senate to succeed either Mr. Platt or Mr. Depew, Senator Platt retires from office March 4, 1909, and were the president elected to succeed him, he could be sworn in as senator on the very day that he ceases to be president. Mr. Depew leaves the senate only two years later, and if the president wished to make a leisurely tour of the world, or take a good long rest after he leaves the white house, he could doubtless arrange his fences so that he could step into that gentleman's shoes in 1911.

The prisoners arrested Tuesday night his officials acts can be scrutinized more calmly his critics will give him credit for the single-heartedness that actuates him.

By the time the following presidential campaign rolls around, in 1912, the president would not be surprised to find a general demand for his candidacy. Even were he compelled to wait for the campaign of 1912 for the vindication that time gives to all who strive for the public weal he would still be in the full vigor of manhood, less than 60 years of age, and all the better equipped in mind and experience for the exacting duties of the presidency.

KICKED BY A HORSE.

G. Frank Woodring Died From His Injuries Tuesday Afternoon.

G. Frank Woodring, the well known teaming contractor, suffered a serious accident Monday night, from which he lay at his home on West Fifteenth street, Tyrone in an unconscious condition until 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when he passed away without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Woodring had purchased a new team of horses which just arrived. About 11 o'clock, as was his custom before retiring, he went to the stable to see that everything was all right there. His son-in-law, F. G. Gillmen, was with him. As Mr. Woodring passed by one of the new horses, the animal gave a vicious kick, striking him squarely upon the left temple and knocking him against a partition, resulting in a hard blow to the back of his head. The injuried man then fell forward upon his right eye, another grevious gash resulting. Mr. Gillmen rushed to his assistance and dragged him as soon as possible away from the kicking horse.

Mr. Woodring was rendered unconscious by the terrific blows, and he remained so. He suffered from compression and hemorrhage of the brain, and severe cuts and bruises. Drs. L. Piper and James C. Crawford were summoned at once and were in constant attendance upon the injured man. The outcome of the distressing accident was that Mr. Woodring died at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The Great Destroyer.

Once more we take up the subject that is the most important of all to millions of human beings.

And we urge you to use this editorial and your own stronger personal arguments with young men that may be in danger, with older men and women that need to be helped to fight the greatest curse.

A few things make life worth while. Among them friendship, ambition, self respect, honesty.

All of these and many others are put away in the graves that are dug by drink.

First goes ambition. The grave of ambition is big, and it is filled with the men that began to drink with the idea that "a little would not hurt them" only to find out that a little of the beginning means destruction in the end.

The work done by alcohol in the human mind is done insidously—with an intelligence devilish in its cunning.

Ambition is killed in men by drink—because the foundation of ambition is modesty, dissatisfaction with ourselves.

Drink makes men egotistical. It fills them with self-approval. They pity themselves when they should blame themselves.

And drink kills friendship.

One by one friends are driven from the man that put his own selfish appetite ahead of duty and of all other consideration.

Drink makes men violent one day, tearfully repentant the next—and both days the drinker is unmanly.

Friendship is based upon appreciation of manliness, upon the sense of equality between men.

Drink destroys equality; it drags a man down, and it drags him away from his friends.

Drink destroys ambition and friendship. It kills and buries love and happy family life.

How many wives have clung to drunken husbands? How desperately they have tried to save them only the drunkards know. But what drink starts out to do, it does. It destroys affection, and it destroys the family. The family is based upon the respect of the children for the father and mother.

Drink destroys respect, for it kills that by which respect was created.

Drink destroys the drinker's self-respect.

Some of the best men in the world have been victims of alcohol.

The Wickedness of Liquor.

Strange it is to say, but in a civilized, Christian nation people still stand up for the licensed sale of liquor. The common expression of those who are in favor of it is, "saloons are better than blind tigers." Well they may be, but if our officers and all our people were just what they ought to be, there wouldn't be one hateful "blind tiger" on the face of the globe. I well remember in our town some time past, when the licensed sale of liquor became fixed, then the officers went to work to rid it of "blind tigers," and never stopped till they brought to the front twenty-seven. Now the question comes to my mind why they couldn't have done it before the saloons came. People say as long as a town, county or state goes dry then the blind tigers come. Now who is to blame? If the officers can keep them down when they have licened saloons, why can't it be done any time.

Stranger than all, I hear people who profess to be Christians upholding the sale of liquor. Any rational person, especially those who profess to be Christians, ought to take the advice of Solomon, the wisest man that ever lived, when he said, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging and whosoever is deceived thereby, is not wise." My sincere wish and desire is that every body's motto would, and would always be, with God's help, I will never taste, sell, or have anything to do with liquor except to fight it to its bitter end. I long to see the day when every saloon will be rebuilt into a church and every blind tiger into a mission station, and every drop of the abominable stuff turned into clear water, and every one who is in favor of it into a true follower of Christ. Then mothers and wives can have sons and husbands that they can be really proud of. I long to see the day when I can vote, of course it wouldn't be much, but I shall have the satisfaction of casting one vote against the abominable traffic.

Respectfully, M. E. Martin.

ANCIENT WATER VILLAGES.

Relic of Old Customs Prevailing In the "Spreewald."

One of the most interesting regions in the "old fatherland" is the so called "Spreewald," the forest of the Spree, situated not far from the German capital, in the province of Brandenburg. Each village is a little Venice, every house a little island, and these islets are connected by bridges sufficiently raised to allow boats to pass under them. Most of the houses, with their barns and stables, rest on piles, and there is generally a strip of artificial terra firma either in front or at the rear of every building. By means of these land strips and of the bridges the slender land communication is kept throughout the district, but most of the business and amusement are carried on through the canals, which not only form the main highways, but penetrate and cross and recross the whole region. It is on these lagoons that all traffic is conducted in boats during the period from spring when the last vestiges of frost and ice are disappearing until the end of autumn. You see the letter carrier shoot up and down the canals, performing his duties in his frail craft; the police glide leisurely along the banks, watching everything going on; peasants bring the products of their toil to the nearest towns; children go to and from school; young mothers, dressed in their Sunday clothes, are rowed to church, carrying in their arms a small, queer looking bundle from which two large eyes in a tiny face stare at the stranger in wonderment—baby is going to be baptized, an important moment with this strongly religious people.—Technical World Magazine.

DREAM MYSTERY.

The Events That May Be Crowded Into a Few Seconds.

The duration of a dream is so seldom accurately measured that a story published in the St. Louis Medical Record is worth repeating.

The writer, a doctor, was seized with an uncontrollable drowsiness during a call and was struggling to keep awake when he was asked by his companion, "How long may you stay in B.?" His answer, which came promptly enough, was, "That depends on the Western Union," and, catching himself, he explained that he was expecting a telegram. In fact, however, his answer related to the facts of a dream which had been sandwiched between the two parts of the sentence.

After hearing the words "How long" the doctor had dozed off, dreamed that after long and tedious experiments he had invented a wonderful apparatus for holding telegraph poles in a vertical position, had negotiated with the postal company for its sale, but unsuccessfully, and had finally gone to the authorities of the other company. They, in the dream, told him they were considering a German invention for the same purpose, and the dreamer crossed the ocean to examine the rival device, returned, explained the differences to the intending purchaser and was writing a reply when he woke in time to hear the end of his companion's question.

The events of the dream had apparently consumed months, yet the actual time that elapsed was merely that required for uttering about four short words.

Precedent For "Governess."

Albert VII., archduke of Austria, married Isabella Clara Eugenie, infanta of Spain, who brought to him as dowry the sovereignty of the Low Countries, etc. When Philip IV. of Spain ascended the throne in 1621 he took from his aunt the sovereignty of the Low Countries, but left her the title of governess. Her husband died soon after, whereon she took the veil, though still retaining the reins of government. She died at Brussels in 1633, aged sixty-six. Here there is precedent for the use of the word governess when a lady holds the post.—London Notes and Queries.

DESPERATE HEROISM.

An Incident of the Indian Fighting Days In Illinois.

The desperate intrepidity and warlike heroism of the early settlers of Illinois are illustrated by an incident narrated in "Historic Illinois." The early days were a time of hardship, danger and death. Every forest covert, every tuft of prairie grass, might hide some skulking red enemy. Among the early frontiersmen was a Captain Whiteside, whose name became a terror among the Kickapoos.

A party of fourteen white men led by Whiteside made an attack upon an encampment of Indians of greatly superior force. Only one Indian escaped. During the heat of the skirmish Captain Whiteside was severely wounded, he thought mortally, having received a shot in the side.

As he fell he called to his sons to keep on fighting and not to yield an inch of ground or permit the savages to touch his body. Uel Whiteside, who had also been shot in the arm, so that he could no longer use his rifle, hastily examined his father's wound, discovering that the bullet had glanced along the ribs and lodged against the spine.

With that daring and disregard for pain so often characteristic of border men he immediately whipped out his knife, gashed the skin, extracted the ball and held it up, crying:

"You're not dead yet, father!"

The old man leaped to his feet, renewed the fight and bore his full part to the end. Many such instances of heroism distinguished the men who in those days of peril were called upon to defend the frontiers of Illinois.

A SPECIAL SENSE.

That Which Unerringly Directs a Shark to Carrion.

It is a curious thing and, so far as present knowledge goes, quite inexplicable how a shark seems to have an unerring perception of the presence of carrion. By virtue of what sense does he know that at a distance of perhaps a couple of miles there is food to be had for the picking up? It can hardly be sight, and to say that it is the sense of smell presupposes an olfactory apparatus of such marvelous delicacy that one good whiff from an average "harness cask" would surely burst the machinery for good and all. And yet our shark will bolt a goodly lump of the gamiest salt pork without so much as a wink. No, it cannot be his nose which leads him.

Now a theory has been put forward by naturalists that the shark possesses, in common with the Andes condor, a special sense, or instinct, which is denied to cleaner feeding animals. The naturalist cannot explain this sense. He confesses, in fact, that he knows nothing about it. But he can give it a name. He calls it the "carrion sense," and with that name, which, of course, explains nothing at all, expects us to be satisfied.—Pearson's Magazine.

Little Things.

It is no great task to play the piano. Still in playing some intricate passages the hands must move far more rapidly than the performer realizes. In Weber's "Moto Perpetuo," for instance, 4,541 notes are sounded in less than four minutes, or at the rate of twenty each second. In one of Chopin's "Studies" there is a greater demand made, as for two and one-half minutes twenty-six notes are struck each second.

In following the printed lines in a book or paper the eye in the course of a lifetime covers some 5,000 miles, and the ordinary correspondent pushes a pen over twenty to twenty-five miles of paper in the course of threescore and ten years.

The waiter in a restaurant covers from eight to fifteen miles a day without leaving his place of service, and in eating a full meal one's jaws exert a force of several tons in the mastication of food. A man winks 6,870 times in a year, and the energy he wastes in shaking hands in that time would lift eight tons one foot from the ground.

The Ant's Cow.

The aphis, one of the most widely distributed species of insects known to the entomologists, is sometimes referred to as the "ant's cow." The aphis actually gives milk, although the creature itself is so small that it is estimated to weigh but the one one-thousandth of a grain. Out of the back of the aphis project two hollow tubes. These connect with ducts in the body, which secrete a sweet liquid. When the tubes are touched the liquid exudes in small drops. The ants know this, and they make a regular business of tickling the tubes of the little aphis to make her "give down her milk." The ant is very fond of this saccharine food and will "milk" a hundred aphides in the course of an hour.

Why He Resigned.

The French Baron Rothschild once had in his service a valet named Alphonse, first class, but an acknowledged "red." This valet obtained permission once a week to attend the meetings of his Socialist lodge. Suddenly the baron noticed that Alphonse no longer desired this off night and, inquiring into the cause, was informed that the valet's late Socialist colleagues had worked out a calculation that if all the wealth of France were divided equally per capita each individual would be the possessor of 2,000 francs. "Monsieur," said Alphonse, with dignity, "I resigned. I have 5,000 francs!"

A GENEROUS CRITIC.

Story of John Oxenford, a Once Famous London Character.

John Oxenford was for years the leading theatrical critic of London. Mr. Oxenford was troubled with a serious bronchial affection, which occasionally disturbed the audience, for he refused to give up his beloved theater, although desperately ill. A certain rising young actor was very anxious to obtain Oxenford's valuable opinion on his work, and the tender hearted old gentleman literally left his bed and came down to the theater on a bitter cold night to do a good action to a clever youngster. In the middle of one of the actor's finest scenes on came the cough from the Oxenford box. It continued so long that it unnerved the actor, and he came to a dead stop. To the surprise of everybody he advanced to the front and said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I am sorry to say that unless the old gentleman with the irritating cough retires temporarily from the theater I really cannot go on. I forget everything. It is painful so to address you, but I am powerless in the matter and place myself in your hands."

The disturbance at once ceased, and the box was empty. When the curtain fell a friend rushed around and, breathless, said to the distressed actor: "Do you know what you have done? Do you know who it was that you turned out of the box?" "I neither know nor care," was the reply. "Why, it was John Oxenford!" The actor was paralyzed, but he got his good notice all the same. The veteran critic went home coughing to praise the young actor who had turned him out.

JUDGING DOGS.

The Rules by Which the Different Points Are Valued.

The average man is greatly puzzled to find one dog awarded a first prize and another, which to him appears to be quite as fine a specimen, awarded no prize at all. A man who knows the relative values of the different points in all breeds of dogs is a veritable walking encyclopedia.

Generally speaking, the best dog is one which comes nearest the standard of requirements for its own particular breed, about 25 per cent of the points being usually awarded for fine head proportions, an equal number for legs and feet, a similar number for body and color and the rest for symmetry.

In the Dalmatian, for instance, thirty points are given for color and markings, while head, eyes and ears have only fifteen; the bulldog, on the other hand, has forty-five for head and ears, while coat and color amount to but five points; the collie has twenty-five for coat, color being immaterial, and twenty-five for head and ears.

The St. Bernard has forty for head and ears and five each for coat and color. The Pomeranian has but fifteen for head and ears, forty-five points going for coat, color and tail, with fifteen for appearance. It may be set down as governing in all breeds of dogs that whatever is the typical feature of that breed is the feature upon which stress is laid in the allotment of points.

Curious Welsh Superstition.

Small glasslike, irregular circlets of some crystallized mineral are occasionally found in the mountains of Wales, and concerning these the Welsh people have some curious superstitions. Some believe that they are formed in the body of a snake as soon as he reaches the age of 100 years, while others declare that they are formed "of froth and venom" when two large male snakes meet. Camden, the great English historian and antiquarian, says: "It is usual for snakes to approach on St. John's eve and by joining heads together and hissing to form a kind of bubble, which passes through the snake and immediately hardens till it resembles a glass ring. Whoever finds one of these rings will ever after prosper."

Rude Baron Steuben.

Baron Steuben was known as the rudest, roughest, most uncivil and discourteous officer in the Revolutionary army. He spoke English to some extent—that is, he knew most of the oaths and expletives and had other words enough to string them together—but when a little excited he would burst forth into a most extraordinary mixture of German, French and English and in this polyglot composition would abuse everybody in hearing.

The Word "Expire."

"Expire" in its literal sense is breathing out. Inspiration and expiration together constitute respiration. Izaak Walton observed that "if the inspiring or expiring organ of any animal be stopt it suddenly dies." The Romans spoke of "breathing out" the breath of life instead of "dying," by way of euphemism, just as they said "Vixit" (he has lived) instead of "he is dead." In all languages the reluctance frankly to say "dead" or "die" appears; hence such words and phrases as "pass away," "decease," "demise," "the departed," "defunct," "the late," "is no more," "if anything should happen to me."

Nothing will relieve indigestion that is not a thorough digestan, Kopoi Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, and allows the stomach to resut—recuperate—grows strong again. A few doses of Kodol aftermeals will soon restore the stomach and digestive organs to a full performance of their functions naturally. Sold by Greens Parmacy.

—Feel languid, weak, run-down, Headache? Stomach "off"?—Just a plain case of lazy liver. Burdock Blood Bitters tones liver and stomach, promotes digestion, purifies the blood.

The Amen! of marriage is always a baby. Without it, wedlock is a summer field that never blooms, a flower that never buds, a night without stars, a sermon without a benediction, a prayer without an Amen.

There never was a husband worthy of the name, who did not aspire to be the father and the grandfather of healthy, capable children, to hand down his name and the fortune accumulated by the sweat of his brow, from generation to generation. There never was a wife fit to bear that noble title, who did not wish to wear womanhood's most glorious crown, the sceptre of motherhood. Thousands of wedded couples, otherwise happy, fall short of wedlock's greatest happiness because they are childless. In the majority of cases, this is because the wife, through ignorance or neglect, suffers from weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. For women who suffer in this way there is one great medicine that does not fail to accomplish its purpose. It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate organs concerned and makes them strong, healthy, vigorous and virile. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones the shattered nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It quickens and vitalizes the distinctly feminine organism. It banishes the maladies of the expectant months and makes baby's introduction to the world easy and almost painless. In insures the little new-comer's health and nourishment in plenty. It is the best supportive tonic for nursing mothers.

Mrs. Jennie Parks, of Marshall, Spokane Co., Wash., writes: "I am glad to tell of the good results of your great medicine—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives me strength. I have no tired feeling and my baby is the picture of health. I feel better than I have in ten years."

In cases of constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used as an adjunct to "Favorite Prescription." They are extremely simple, perfectly natural and insure prompt and permanent relief.

—Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates, and will not constipate like nearly all other cough medicines. Refuse substitutes. For sale by C. M. Parrish.

POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE

It is Not a Feature in the Temporary Retirement of Castro.

WANTS TO TAKE REST

Understood That He Will Remain Away from Cares of State Several Months

CASTRO'S CABINET HAS RESIGNED.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Castro's temporary retirement from the head of the Venezuelan government has no political significance, so far as is known, according to a dispatch received by the state department Friday from W W. Russell, the United States minister to Venezuela. Mr. Russell's dispatch was dated at Caracas, April 10, and was sent by ship to Willemstad, Curacao, and cabled from that point.

The dispatch states that President Castro says he is exhausted physically and desires to take a rest. He is going to La Victoria, which lies on the line of railroad connecting Caracas and Puerto Cabello.

It has been the custom of President Castro for several years to visit La Vacitoria for several weeks at a time.

Caracas, Tuesday, April 10.—via Willemstead, Island of Curacao, April 14.—General Castro Thursday transferred the presidency of Venezuela to Vice President Gomez. In an address which he made on that occasion General Castro said that his retirement was due to ill health, but he did not say whether it was temporary or permanent. It is generally understood, however, that his retirement will last about three months.

During the course of his remarks General Castro said:

"Our present international position is completely defined and cleared up and leads us to hope that everything will proceed with the utmost harmony on the foundation of mutual respect and consideration for our rights, as universally recognized and that all pending matter will necessarily be settled by some friendly arrangement or by arbitration, the last resort of civilization,

"The financial situation of Venezuela cannot be more flattering. It is known in Venezulea and abroad that all Venezuela's engagements are religiously carried out."

As a result of General Castro's retirement the Venezuelan cabinet has resigned.

PRESCRIPTION FOR INDIGESTION.

How Scores of Bellefonte People Obtain Relief.

If it really were known how many Bellefonte residents have been cured of stomach trouble and digestion by Dr. Davis' Prescription, it might perhaps surprise you, but what is more surprising is the fact that any one will continue to suffer with heart burn, sour stomach, water brash, sick headache, mental depression, nausea, and other distressing symptoms of dyspepsia when there is a remedy of such great merit that it almost invariably benefits every one that tries it. Pepsicola Tablets are the prescription of Dr. Davis, a physician who devoted a lifetime to the study of stomach trouble, and if your food does not agree with you, if you are tired, nervous, worn out, low spirited and your energy at low par, it may interest you to know that no other prescription in this world has a greater record of cures behind it, and there is nothing more certain to give you relief. Mr. C. M. Parrish will tell you that although Pepsikola is sold on the fairest kind of a money back plan, not more than two in one hundred ever come back for their money. This is the surest evidence of its marvelous curative properties, but so that there may not be the least doubt in your mind as to what Pepsikola will do for you, Mr. Parrish will hand your quarter right back to you if you should fail to receive the benefit you look for.

Read!

In the New York Family Story Paper Charlotte May Kingsley's great romance An American Girl; or Hearts and Coronets. The subject deals with the one brought into prominence only lately by Andrew Carnegie's remark that he would not care to have a worthless British Duke marry into his family. Mrs. Kingsley depicts the American Girl true to life with all of a real American girl's abhorrence of being bartered for a title. This splendid serial begins in No. 1654 of The New York Family Story Paper. To enable all to read this fascinating romance we will send you a copy of the paper, containing the opening instalment, free of all charge. Splinters.

Burying lots—Undertakers.

There is always a square deal in a four handed game.

You want to be sure of your ground before you start to build your house.

It is better for a woman to tell her age than to have people guess at it.

The Judge—You are accused of raising a note; what have you to say for yourself?"

The Prisoner—"Don't you believe it, Judge; I couldn't even raise ten cents."

Every cloud may have a silver lining, but you cannot always hold out until the storm is over

Franklin—"Have you entirely recovered from your recent vacation?"

Penn—"No, I am still compelled to live on a light diet.

There is no time like the present, they say, but most people would be willing to live over a few days of the past.

Binks—"I understand that Smith wrote the epitaph for his own tombstone.

Dinks—"Yes, he wasn't taking any chances with the recording angel."

The Tree Killer.

Don't let anybody butcher your shade or fruit trees. At this time of year there are men traveling up and down the land seeking trees which they may mutilate and destroy. Many of these men do not know whether sap ascends from the roots or is otherwise supplied to the tree in some mysterious way. When such a fellow begins operations on a tree the bet is ten to one that he will so disfigure it that it will be a disgrace to its kind, or that he will cut and slash in such a manner that the tree will die. The only safe plan to be pursued if your trees need trimming is to hire a man you know is capable of doing the work properly.

Employ an expert, not an amateur. The latter may do the work cheaply, but if he kills your trees the result will be an expensive lesson to you. It requires years for a tree to grow, but a wood butcher can stop its growth in a few minutes. He will not replace the dead tree with one just as good, but will take his hatchet, saw and other instruments of tree destruction tnd move along in search of other easy victims.

The Kansas Editor's Wedding.

The bride wore a beautiful dress of French lawn, at least that's what they said it was.

The groom (that means "me") wore the customary black-hand-me-down, and was about scared to death.

There were no bridesmaid or best man, because the did not think he could find a better man than himself.

Miss Randolph is a peach; most of her beauty is natural, and she looks good to us, she is one of our schoolmates and we know can throw a brick with remarkable accuracy. A sample of her rare nerve is shown by her vowing to "love, honor, etc."

The other interested party is a joker; he came to Leona in the fall of '83, with out clothes or money, and is now free from all financial dept. There are others just as bad and they are not in the penitentiary either.—Leona (Kan.) Hustler.

Many Uses of Tea.

Hot tea will often relieve a sick stomache or a headache, is restful and soothing to the nerves.

Cold tea with ice and lemon is an almost ideal summer drink.

Cold, weak tea cleans paint admirably, even white paint.

It cleans men's clothee, taking out spots.

To clean black spots with tea, silk, satin or cashmere, sponge thoroughly and press with a hot iron on the wrong side.

Tea colors lace that "old" color which is to much desired.

Green tea will darken red hair, it is said.

Tea leaves are very good to sprinkle on the carpet to lay the dust before starting in to sweep.

Tea leaf poultices are good for weak or inflamed eyes.

Curfew Demanded.

The mayor of Williamsport wants the curfew, and is emphatic about it. In his annual message he declares that "seeing and hearing, as I do, of the immorality growing out of the promiscuous intermingling upon our streets at all hours of the night, of young people of both sexes, I am more firmly persuaded of the necessity of a curfew law, which will empower the police to drive to their home at a reasonable hour, these boys and girls over whom no parental control is exercised." There are other communities are in the same plight.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR
for children; safe, sure. No opiates

THE IDEAL.

We see thee lon the hills oh, maiden tall!
Oh, maiden with the sun-resplendent eyes!
For one hushed minute the o'ernanging pall,
Shrouding the peaks of God, up seems to rise,
And thee revealed against the August skies,
Clear limned and shedding glory like a star.
Oh, thou divinely beautiful and wise,
Be not so cold and high, so hopeless far
Come down among these lower lands where shadows are!

For we are native to these shaded fields
And valleys dusk, where tangled forests grow,
Backed by the rugged mountain range that shields
Our standing corn from upland winds that blow
Swift with the great hill-sweep and sharp with snow.
Come down, come down, and bide a little space
Here in the valley, that if needs we go
Sunward to view the sunshine in thy face,
Thyself may lead us by the hand to that high place!

The revelation passes, and the mist
Lies on the summit as it lay of old.
A pleasant, lily-scented breeze hath kissed
Our temples; we know valley rivers hold
Lilies serenely white, with hearts of gold.
We hear the happy shepherd with his horn
O'er valley meadows where in quiet fold
The flocks are gathered. Tidings glad are born
From valley fields where glows the wealth of standing corn

We want not lilies, sheep or corn, though long
These pleasured us. We leave the vales; no more
Shall we in summer harken to the song
Of sheltered folk content. As men of yore
God in the wilderness would fain adore.
So we, the exalted vision to obey
Strive up the rocks and grope in cloudland's frore.
Oh! it is vain, this climbing toward the day,
Hill Queen? At least we break the way, we break the way.

—Irene P. McKeehan in the Century.

Whistling Chorus Saves Many.

By organizing his congregation into a whistling chorus, and allowing those who could not sing hymns to whistle them, Evangelist F. E. Oliver has converted 1063 people in McPherson county, Kansas, during the last three weeks.

The evangelist asked all of his hearers who could not sing to whistle, and the spectators came from all over the county to hear the music. Many of those who came to look on became participants in the strange ceremony, and were converted.

It is believed that the success of the minister is the greatest ever achieved at a revival meeting in that state.

A Word Of Warning.

What a blessing it would be to many homes in Bellefonte if some of the want-to be professionalist who are furnishing and filling prescriptions to habitual drunkards on Sunday and every day in the week for tonics; were arrested and made to suffer the penalty of the law for such business. Since the order of the court forbidding the sale of liquor in bottles has gone into effect in our county; this nefarious traffic has been kept up. It is now time it should stop. A word to the wise is sufficient.

THE TOWN COUNCIL.

Regular Semi-Monthly Session on Monday Night.

The Borough Fathers met in the Council chamber on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock to hold their regular semi-monthly session. In the absence of President Keller, the council selected Dr. Kirk as president pro-tem. The other members present were Shuey, Brown, Keichline, Hamilton, Derstine, Seibert and Wagner.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Rankin asked for a grade on Curtin street as he wants to lay a stone walk in front of his residence.

It was suggested that something be done in regard to crossing on Curtin street between Warfield's and Merriman's It is a dangerous place.

The street committee reported that County Commissioner's refused to aid in repairing High Street bridge over Spring Creek. It was decided to re-plank bridge. They were divided as to whether a light was needed at Central station. They also decided they were not ready to repair street at this point just yet.

At this time President Keller entered and took the chair. J. Irvin Kline was granted the privilege until further notice to sprinkle the street from the railroad bridge on High Street to the residence of John Olewine on Spring street, He is to be under the direction of the Street committee.

A note was ordered drawn in favor of the boro treasurer for $1,662.50 for 4 months at 5 per cent to pay interest on the $95 000 borough loan due April 3rd.

A complaint was made in regard to the dumping of ashes and paper in the alley between Warfield's and Merriman's on West Curtin street: It was referred to Sanitary committee with power.

Henry Wetzel was re-elected borough engineer for the ensuing year.

Mr. Hamilton made a proposal that the Public Square in front of the Diamond be paved with brick. It would cost about $1300 and would take about 65000 brick. It was thought property owners and county would pay part of this expense. The matter was referred to street committee to investigate and report.

Franklin's Advice.

Time is money.

Make haste slowly,

Forewarned, forearmed.

Little strokes fell great oaks.

There are no gains without pains.

He has paid dear for his whistle.

Eat to live and not live to eat.

A good example is the best sermon.

Three removals are as bad as a fire.

One to day is worth two to-morrows.

God helps them that help themselves.

Constant dropping wears away stones.

Married in haste, repent at leisure.

He that goes a borrowing goes a-sorrowing.

Fools make feasts and wise men eat them.

God heals and the doctors take the fees.

Keep thy shop and thy shop will keep thee.

There never was a good war or a bad peace.

It is hard for an empty bag to stand upright.

When the well's dry we know the worth of water.

Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time.

In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes.

Never leave that till tomorrow which you can do today.

If you'd have a servant that you like, serve yourself.

If you would have your business done, go! If not, send!

Those have short Lent who owe money to be paid at Easter.

TWO FIRE ALARMS!

They Were Turned In From The North Ward Wednesday Morning

The usual quiet of our town was disturbed Wednesday by two fire alarms which were turned in both from the North ward. Fortunately no very serious damage was done as both fires were discovered in time to prevent their spread.

The first fire was at the residence of H Y. Stitzer on east High St, opposite the court house. Mrs. Stitzer was preparing to get dinner on a gasolene stove in her kitchen, In filling the stove the gasolene ran over and Mrs. Stitzer cleaned up as well as she could. She then lighted the stove, when instantly there was a blaze sprang up, burning her eyebrows and hair and setting fire to the kitchen. She at once gave the alarm and the neighbors ran to her assistance. Joseph Runkle, Paul Fortney and some others succeeded in subduing the flames. The kitchen was badly damaged by fire and water. This fire occurred about 9 a. m.

The second fire was about 11 o'clock Wednesday. A stable on the old Orvis property now occupied by Edward Richards on East Linn street caught fire from sparks from a brush heap which was burning in the garden. The blaze had made considerable progress when the fire companies reached the scene, but by prompt work they soon had the fire out with no serious damage.

THE TROUT SEASON.

It Opened Officially Monday—Many Anglers are Ready.

Its here. The trout season for which the numerous disciples of the immortal Walton have been waiting and longing since the advent of spring. The opening day fell on Sunday but as fishing is unlawful on that day the fisherman through necessity were compelled to wait a day longer before indulging in the sport Numerous anglers left Sunday for their chosen fishing grounds and the early Monday morning trains carried many more to streams where the speckled beauties are to be found, to try their line in hooking the game fish.

The weather of the past few days has been somewhat against the sport but the ardor of the anglers cannot be curbed for a little thing like the weather, especially the kind of weather scheduled for this territory. They're going out and the next few days will be interesting by hearing the story of how many this fellow hooked and what a nice basket of the speckled beauties the other fellow brought home.

Monday morning at 9 o'clock one hundred and ten men were counted along the streams from Pleasant Gap to Bellefonte.

It seems that it is unlawful for the policemen to fire first, but so far as he is concerned it is evidently much safer.

—Scranton Times: Dr. Booker T. Washington, one of the brightest and noblest examples of the colored people today, must have felt proud this week on the 25th anniversary of Tuskegee Institute, at the celebration of which many prominent educators and men of affairs of the nation were present, and who will give needed financial assistance to this most excellent and worthy school.

—An old citizen informs us that seventeen inches of snow fell on the 17th day of April, 1854. 52 years ago. An old friend has suggested that the April snow of that year occurred earlier in the month. If any of our older citizens are in possession of such data as would enable them to definitely name the exact date of that April snow, we would be pleased to hear from them. It certainly was the most remarkable April snow on record.

Death of Jesse Wert.

Jesse Wert died at his home in Aaronsburg Monday night of paralysis, aged 76 years Deceased was a life long resident of Haines township, and one of its most prominent and respected citizens. He was twice married, his first wife dying about 18 years ago; to the union of the first wife were born three children, James, of Tusseyville; Luther, of Aaronsburg, and Mrs. Emma Hartman, who several years ago preceded her father to the great beyond. To the union with his second wife no children were born. Funeral services were held Thursday at 9:30 o'clock conducted by Rev. C. F. Garrett and interment in the Lutheran cemetery.

For the Children

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. A sluggish liver gives a coated tongue, bad breath, constipated bowels. Correct all these by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated.

Ayer's HAIR VIGOR. AGUE CURE. CHERRY PECTORAL.

Death of R. I. Fleming.

The many friends in Bellefonte of Robert I. Fleming, a former well known citizen, will be pained to hear of that gentleman's death, which occurred unexpectedly at Brookville, Jefferson county, Thursday morning at 3 o'clock, of an affection of the heart. While he had been in ill health for several months, he was able to be about and no apprehension was felt.

Mr. Fleming was born in Lock Haven, and was a son of the late A. S. Fleming, who was a former sheriff of Clinton county. He resided in that city and Flemington nearly all his life. During President Cleveland's first administration Mr. Fleming served as postmaster of Lock Haven, having been appointed to complete the unexpired term of W. W. Rankin, deceased. About 18 years ago he went to Brookville to take charge of the lumber operations there for the late W. A. Simpson; and had resided there since that time. Several years ago he retired from active business pursuits.

Mr. Fleming was a most affable and courteous gentleman, whom it was a pleasure to meet, and he was exceedingly popular with all classes of people.

Deceased was aged 69 years, and is survived by three brothers: John W. Fleming, Lock Haven; George Fleming, New York; James E. Fleming, Newark, N. J., and three sisters: Mrs. C. S. McCormick, Lock Haven, Mrs. Harry Nice, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Maud Ward, New York. Mr. Fleming was twice married, each time to a Miss Tammany of Lock Haven, sisters of the late Mrs. W. A. Simpson, both of whom preceded him to the grave. No children survive.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life will make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect.

Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant drains which are often consequent on marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the check of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. Half a million women and more have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Perscription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Bellefonte Defeated.

The Y. M. C. A., bowling team of Lock Haven added one more scalp to its string of victories Thursday afternoon by defeating the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A., team at this place. The game was arranged on short notice and it was possible to secure only four men for the team, but Bellefonte was in the same predicament.

Bowling has been exceedingly popular in Bellefonte for several months and the Y. M. C. A. alleys and surroundings are up-to-date in every respect, while the courtesies extended the Lock Haven boys by Secretary Meserve, Physical Director Godfrey and the members of the bowling team made the visit a most pleasant one.

When the contest ended it was found that Lock Haven led by the magnificent total of 328 pins.

—Franklin Repository: There is no reason why Pennsylvania should provide for tramps when other States are legislating against them. It is about time for our legislature to act. There is no reason for any tramps existing in these days of prosperity.

THE FIRST BOTTLES

THEY WERE UNDOUBTEDLY MADE OF HIDES OF ANIMALS.

Some of These Ancient Receptacles For Wine Were of Gigantic Size. Skin Bags Are Still Used In Spain, Portugal and Greece.

The most ancient receptacles of wine were formed of animal hides. These must be almost as old as wine itself, for there certainly would have been very little use in expressing the juice of the grape and allowing it to ferment unless there had been vessels of some sort to contain it. Even if stored in underground cisterns, as is still done in southern Europe, bottles would be required for carrying the liquid on journeys or even for consuming it at home. Frequent mention is made of such bottles in ancient literature. At a feast in the liquid in the "Iliad" the servants are described as bearing wine upon their shoulders in a bottle of goat-skin, from which the goblets of the guests were filled.

Throughout the interior of Spain wine is still conveyed from place to place in bottles made of goat or pig skin identical in every respect with the description given by Herodotus, says the Chicago Chronicle. It will doubtless be remembered that in the venta on the Sierra Morena Don Quixote's room was hung around with these cueros and that the doughty knight, mistaking them for the myrmidons of a wicked enchanter, valiantly attacked them with his sword until the room was inch deep in red wine flowing from the gashes made in the skins.

In Portugal and Greece these skin bags are also used for the conveyance of wine, as they are much more portable than any other sort of vessel, especially in a mountainous district, where they have to be borne by mules. These leathern bottles have a peculiar interest, for in make and material they connect the viniculture of today with its origin in the unknown past. They are survivals which have floated down to us on the stream of time unaffected by centuries of age.

A leathern bottle capable of holding an armed man would seem today too unwieldy for practical purposes, but there is evidence that many of those used by the Romans were of still greater dimensions. Among the ruins of the ancient city of Pompeii a mural picture has been discovered representing an enormous skin bag on a wine cart which is being borne along by a machine shaped like a boat. Two men were drawing the wine off into amphorae. In order to gain popularity a Roman politician would occasionally dole out wine wholesale to the clients whose favor he courted, and this picture probably portrays the conveyance on which the wine skin was borne through the streets and the men engaged in circulating it.

The coronation ceremony of Ptolemy Philadelphus excelled in pomp and pageantry every procession recorded in history, not even excepting the triumphant progress with which Alexander the Great celebrated his escape from the deserts of Gedrosia. Perhaps the object of Philadelphus was so to dazzle his subjects that they should forget the domestic crimes with which he inaugurated his ascent to the throne. The cost of the procession is estimated at over $500,000 of American money. It lasted the whole day, being opened by the figure of the morning star and closed with that of Hesperus.

Eighty thousand troops, cavalry and infantry, clad in gorgeous uniforms, marched past. Although the festival was held in winter owing to the delicious Egyptian climate, abundance of fresh grapes were provided on one of the vehicles of the procession and a vintage scene faithfully represented. To the sound of the flute and song sixty satyrs under the superintendence of Silenus, bearing his symbolic cantharus, trod out the grapes and flooded the streets with foaming must.

Perhaps not the least appreciated part of the show was a car thirty-seven feet long by twenty-one feet broad, bearing a gigantic uter made of leopard hides and containing 3,000 amphorae of wine. As the Greek amphora is equivalent to eight imperial gallons, the liquid contained in the uter would have equaled the enormous quantity of 24,000 gallons.

The sides must have been strengthened with some material stronger than leather to enable the skins to resist the pressure of such a weight of liquid. As the car moved along in the stately procession the wine was allowed slowly to flow from it so that the thirsty multitude could fill their drinking vessels as it passed.

The scholastic Latin term for a wine skin is uter, but the colloquial word used was butis, and thus a small skin was the diminutive buticula. From this buticula is derived the word "bottle," and, with slight linguistic modification, the same has been adopted in all modern languages.

Although skins were never used for wine in England, even when grape juice was fomented there, the leather bottle or blackjack was one of the earliest drinking vessels. It is celebrated in many old English ballads and is not an uncommon alehouse emblem at the present day. Some of these leather bottles were silver lined and were ornamented with silver bells "to ring peals of drunkenness," as Becker says in his "English Villainies Seven Times Pressed to Death." When so ornamented they are called "gyngle boyes."

Many of those in ordinary use were made in the shape of a boot, which occasioned the French prisoners to report on their return to France that "the Englishmen used to drink out of their bootes."

for in the expenses of John, king of France, when prisoner in England after the battle of Poitiers there is the following entry: "Pour deux bouteilles de cuir achetees a London pour Monseigneur Philippe, 9s. 8d.," no inconsiderable price in those days, A. D. 1359-60.

As the arts improved leather bottles were supplemented, but not displaced, by vessels of clay, great care being taken in the construction to avoid sandy earth or any substance likely to be porous. These, like the hides, partly to prevent the liquor from exuding, were all coated on the inside with pitch, but principally as an antiseptic, to keep the wine sound. These vessels were called amphorae and doubtless originally held the standard gauge of eight gallons, but as their use became limited to cellar storage their size gradually increased until they attained frequently the capacity of 100 gallons and upward.

The smaller amphorae were made on the potter's wheel, but the larger in molds sunk in pits, where they were baked over furnaces. In many of the modern bodegas in Valdepenas wine is still stored in similar earthenware vessels, narrow at the base and widening upward, with arms or ears on either side at the top, and every one of them has its coating of pitch exactly the same as twenty-five centuries ago.

PACKING ORANGES.

The Way the Golden Fruit Is Handled In California.

The things one sees in an orange packing house are a pleasure to the eye, delightful to the olfactories and, when the local manager or overseer is a generous and indulgent person, also most excellent to the taste. The operations are quiet and simple, but systematic, and carried on by all possible mechanical and automatic devices for the saving of labor and effectiveness of service.

At one end of a long building the oranges are unloaded from the vans. At the other end, a few minutes later, they are snugly ensconced in a railway car, ready at the door to begin its long journey eastward. Between these points of exit and entrance much has been done in a quick and quiet way. First the oranges are gently dumped into a receptacle, whence they are carried on a belt or moving platform to an upper part of the building, where they pass slowly along before a group of workers, who pick out the culls or imperfect fruit and drop them into chutes for disposition elsewhere. The other oranges are allowed to pass on down an incline to the separators, in the meantime their weight being taken and registered automatically as they move along.

The separators consist of long troughs with slits or openings of varying widths at the bottom, through which the oranges drop, according to their sizes, as they are carried along, thus separating themselves into the three grades by which they are known to the market. These grades are based on size and are known as "standard," the smallest; "choice," the next in rank, and "fancy," the largest of all.

As they separate themselves and drop from the moving belt the oranges run down in golden streams by little side chutes to a small canvas platform or box, whence they are removed by the nimble fingers of the packers, usually young women, wrapped in soft paper and placed in boxes for final shipment. An expert packer will fill from eighty to ninety boxes per day. From these busy young women the boxes are carefully trundled to a nearby bench or table, where other employees deftly nail and close up the open side. One more turn by other ready hands, and the finished boxes are passed into a car drawn on a convenient siding, where, carefully secured and piled to the roof, they are seen no more until they reach the great distributing centers in the eastern markets.—La Salle A. Maynard in Leslie's Weekly.

The Indestructible Tooth.

The temple at Yakadama, Japan, contains a wonderful relic in the shape of a tooth which, tradition says, one of the gods pulled from his jaw in order to have a weapon with which to dispatch an immense cobra. Years ago, according to the tradition, after the tooth had been worshiped by heathen devotees for centuries, a change of sentiment took place in regard to the relic. It was declared to be a fraud and was accordingly ground to a powder and then thrown into the river. But the particles came together, so the priests say, and again formed themselves into a perfect tooth, which was found as perfect as before the ordeal, quietly reposing in the bed of the river. After this miracle the "temple of the sacred tooth," which had also been destroyed by the unbelievers, was rebuilt and the tooth again enshrined as an object of adoration. At present it is kept in a gold box wrapped in films from the sacred white spider's web. Nonbelievers in the power of the sacred indestructible tooth say that it is simply a molar of some extinct species of gigantic animal.

Paid For the Opinion.

Shortly after Chief Justice Purley of the court of appeals of New Hampshire had retired from the bench and resumed the practice of his profession a man called on him to get his opinion in a certain matter. After stating his case clearly he said, "Well, judge, what do you think of my case?" The judge promptly replied, "I think you are a scoundrel." "How much do I owe you for that opinion?" inquired the client. "Ten dollars," demanded the judge. The fee was promptly paid.

'WARREN" TO HAVE TOMBSTONE.

Fund Increasing, Many Signify their Intention of Helping Along.

The Republican opens up its columns for a subscription for that purpose and hopes that those who knew him and the singular place he held in the community will help in this effort to keep his memory green a little longer, that the boys when they grow up can point to his tombstone and say "I remember him" and tell their stories of his ways and wonderful memory of all who ever lived in Bellefonte, and was recognized as a friend of everybody.

HOW TWO BEAUTIFUL WOMEN ESCAPED PELVIC CATARRH BY AID OF PE-RU-NA.

Female Weakness Is Usually Pelvic Catarrh. Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh Wherever Located.

Mrs. Lizzie Redding, 3134 B Clifton Place, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"I found after trying many different medicines to restore me to health, that Peruna was the only thing which could be depended upon. I began taking it when I was in a decline, induced by female weakness and overwrought nerves.

"I began to feel stronger during the first week I took Peruna and my health improved daily until now I am in perfect health and enjoy life as I never did before."—Lizzie Redding.

Mrs. Mable Bradford, 13 Church street, Burlington, Vt., Secretary Whittier Oratorio Society, writes:

"Peruna is certainly a wonderful medicine for the ills of women. I have heard it spoken of in the highest praise by many, and certainly my experienco is well worthy of a good word.

"I began to have severe pains across my back about a year ago, brought on by a cold, and each subsequent month brought me pain and distress.

"Your remedy was prescribed, and the way it acted upon my system was almost too good to be true. I certainly have regained my health and strength, and I no longer suffer periodical pains and extreme lassitude."—Mable Bradford.

In Peruna these women find a prompt and permanent cure.

Thousands of testimonials to this effect are received by Dr. Hartman every year. The good that Peruna has accomplished in this class of cases can scarcely be over-estimated.

Thousands of Women Cured Every Year by Correspondence—This Is What Dr. Hartman Proposes to Do For You Without Charge.

Women who suffer should read the evidences presented here. We have thousands of letters from grateful friends who tell the same story.

Half the ills that are peculiarly woman's own are of a catarrhal character. Female weakness was not understood for many years.

Dr. Hartman deserves the credit of having determined its real character. He has made catarrh and catarrhal diseases, including pelvic catarrh a life long study.

Peruna cures catarrh, whether of the pelvic organs or any other organ of the human body.

Pe-ru-na, a Natural Beautifier.

Peruna produces clean, mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry and a perfect complexion.

The women have not been slow to discover that a course of Peruna will do more toward restoring youthful beauty than all the devices known to science.

Many a girl has regained her faded beauty, many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by using Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio. All correspondence held strictly confidential.

Revised Rormula. For a number of years requests have come to me from a multitude of greatful friends, urging that Pe-ru-na be given a sight laxative quality. I have been experimenting with a laxative addition for quiet a length of time, and now feel gratified to announce to the friends of Peruna that I have incorporated such a quality in the medicine which in my opinion, can only enhance its well-known beneficial character.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy, Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

THE TRESPASS ACT.

Text of a Most Important Law Which all Should Know.

The trespass law which is now in effect is general in its application and effects all classes of citizens. The property owner who posts his land can arrest and punish anyone who trespasses upon it. That it may be generally understood we republish the law:

"Section 1. Be it enacted, etc, that from and after the passage of this act, it shall be unlawful for any person wilfully to enter upon any land, within the limits of this commonwealth where the owner or owners of said land has caused to be prominently posted upon said land printed notices that the said land is private property, and warning all persons from trespassing thereon under the penalties provided in this act.

"Section 2. Every person violating the provisions of this act shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding $10, together with the costs of prosecution to be recovered before any magistrate or justice of the peace, as fines and penalties are by law recoverable, and in default of payment of said fines and costs, the party convicted shall be committed to the county jail of the proper county for one day for each dollar of fine imposed.

"Section 3. All penalties recovered under this act shall be paid to the school fund of the district in which the trespass was committed.

"Approved the 14th day of April, 1905."

SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER.

Cultivate a Smile.

"Millionaires who laugh are rare," says Andrew Carnegie. Are we to infer from Mr. Carnegies words that the smile or laugh is confined principally to the poorer class of people. If this statement be correct, we beg for strength from on High, to be permitted to cast our lot among the honest poor, that we may forever look upon a smiling and mirthful face. We have but one life, and it rests with ourselves to make this life one of joy and sunshine or one of sadness and unhappiness. We know of no charm which Heaven gives quite so much desired as that of a pleasing smile, or that of laughter. Tis the laughing and sunny tempered girl who is the attractive one in society, she not only casts rays of sunshine in her pathway, but sheds abroad a spirit of cheerfulness and sympathy which seldom can be found in her neighbor who is sullen and morose. The world is filled with pretty thing if we but had courage to grasp them. Moreover we are not to get all we can out of life for ourselves, but to try to make the lives of others happy. Cultivate cheerfulness and it will certainly prove a tonic to ourself. Thus better fitting us to endure the rough places of life, as well as to banish that foul fiend "worry" which in a measure is responsible for the sad faces of today.

Indulge in a good hearty laugh every hour. Have in stock funny incidents and jokes to tell your friends when you meet and in this way the laugh will become contagious.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you,
Weep and you weep alone.
For the dull old earth must borrow its mirth
But has trouble enough of its own."

Creeping Salt.

Here is something in the course of natural phenomena that will interest and instruct the little folks if they look into it curiously: In a tumbler half full of water dissolve just as much common table salt as can be held in solution. Let it stand for a few days and see how the salt creeps out of the water, up the side of the glass and down the outside—just like a thing of life trying to escape from its environments. And when all the salt is apparently out of prison the water remains just as salty as before! It's a pretty demonstration.

Five Injured in Explosion.

Butler, Pa., April 12th.—Five men were seriously injured by the premature explosion of a blast while at work excavating on the Pittsburg, Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad at Unity. The faces of the injured men were mangled until scarcely recognizable. All have broken arms and hands, and their eyes are filled with particles of sand and rock.

CONDITIONS REASSURING!

Yet it is Hard for Neapolitans to Believe that This is True.

ASHES & CINDERS FALL

In Greater Amounts Than on Any Previous Days During the Present Eruption.

THE THIEVES ARE VERY BUSY NOW

Naples, April 13.—While the news from Mount Vesuvius Thursday is reassuring the conditions here in Naples are such as make it difficult to realize that conditions are actually better. The wind is blowing from the volcano in the direction of Naples, carrying the ashes in this direction. Towards evening the fall of ashes and cinders here was worse than at any time since the eruption began.

From the observatory of Mount Vesuvius, where Director Matteucci is continuing his work in behalf of science and humanity, the scene is one of great impressiveness. To reach the observatory one must walk for miles over hardened but hot lava covered with sand until he comes to a point whence nothing can be seen but vast, gray reaches, sometimes flat and sometimes gathered into huge mounds which contain semblances of human faces. In this lonely waste there is no sign of life or vegetation, and no sound is heard except the low mutterings of the volcano. Every day that passes gives new evidence of the magnitude of the catastrophe. Thursday's visit of King Victor Emmanuel to Ottajano revealed new tragedies. At a certain point his majesty was obliged to abandon his motor car and went forward on horseback amid constant danger, his horse floundering through four feet of ashes, stumbling into holes, blinded by the fall of large cinders and the target for falling basaltic masses. In the presence of the king 129 more bodies were extricated from the ruins. The dead at Ottajano are said to number 550.

Queen Helena was with the king when he started for Ottajano, but she was obliged to turn back, as the task was not suitable for a woman. She spent the most of the day visiting the injured in Naples hospitals and inspecting the housing provided for refugees.

The police report the robberies of a large number of the deserted houses. In the excited condition of the populace there is some difficulty in preserving order. The closing of a church at Torre Annunziata, which was considered to be unsafe, precipitated a small riot.

Provision is being made for the feeding and sheltering of people who have remained in their own towns.

It is estimated that 5 000 houses have been destroyed or rendered uninhabitable.

200 Miles of Good Roads.

State Highway Commissioner Hunter expects to build more than 200 miles of good roads in Pennsylvania during the present year. Plans and specifications have been selected for a number of these roads and work will begin within the next three days. Practically every county in the state will profit.

The time limit for making application for this year's appropriation for State aid for the building of roads expires on April 30. The time limit for applying for the maintenance funds for roads expires at the same time. Blanks were sent by Commissioner Hunter recently to every township in the State.

Many counties failed to secure their share of last year's funds by neglecting to file their applications within the time limit.

Scranton Expects Peace.

Scranton, Pa., April 12.—The prevailing sentiment in this city and vicinity is that there will be industrial peace in this region as a result of the counter proposition made by the coal operators It is felt that if the counter proposition will not be accepted in its present form, it will be made the basis of a final settlement of existing differences. All of the washeries hereabouts are in operation, and there is not even a suspicion of disorder. The Erie company operated its Barnum breaker for about half a day.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Commander-in-Chief Tanner Issues His Proclamation.

Washington, April 12.—"Corporal" James Tanner, commander-in-chief of the National Grand Army of the Republic, before leaving Tuesday night for a visit to the southern, western and Pacific coast departments issued his Memorial Day proclamation as general order number seven. It announces that Lincoln's Gettysburg address should be read at all services on May 30, and says.

"We have been observing this day ever since our beloved Logan instituted it in 1868. This year, my brave comrades, we are crossing the broad river at the rate of 5 000 a month, 60,000 a year; soon the great majority will be sleeping their last sleep, and it is our privilege now, as it has been for so many years, to pay loving tribute to their memory by decorating their graves with flowers, which, starting forth from mother earth with each recurring spring-time are emblematic of a resurrection to a glorious immortality.

"I am but performing my solemn duty when I ask all to assist in this loving service Upon department and post commanders the duty rests of attending to the fitting observance of Memorial Day, which this year will fall on Wednesday, May 30. Welcome all auxiliary and allied organizations, encourage school children to attend and to assist and to secure speakers who in clear and eloquent language will teach the lessons of patriotism for which our comrades gave the last full measure of devotion.

"Thirty years ago, when I was department commander of New York in a memorial day order I then issued I suggested to the comrades of New York that wherever, from Montauk Point to Buffalo, any confederate soldier had found sepulchre among us, I trusted that when we went out to laurel the graves of our union dead that our common American manhood would prevent us passing by the graves of our former opponents without dropping thereon some floral remembrance. 'Not,' I said, 'in honor of their cause, for that we opposed, fought and conquered; but because we who met them on the field of battle know that braver men or better soldiers have not been known since men were first marshaled in battle array.'

"We were then scarce a dozen years away from Appomattox, but this suggestion seemed to me met with very general approval. To the order at large I now confidently make the same suggestion

"We have returned the battle standards of the dead confederacy to those who treasure them as sacred mementos of their loved ones who died under them. The congress of the United States has just unanimously voted $200,000 to care for the graves of those dead, and the heart of the nation has said, with unanimity, 'It is well.' Unitedly we march along the highways of nations, rose bushes blossoming over and around, and the birds nesting in the mouths of the cannon that once roared defiance and death at each other, the world applauding, our conscience approving.

"If mothers of the south still sit, like Rachel of old, weeping for their children, and refusing to be comforted because they are not, let the news go down to them that on our most sacred day we feel it a privilege to stand in the place of their far distant kinsman, and lovingly mark their last resting place with God's sweet emblem of peace—flowers.

"The old flag has been re-baptized since 1865 with the blood of the north and the south alike, and the ship of state is securely anchored for all time."

Must Disinfect Money.

Bankers of Pennsylvania will at once get ready to fumigate all money that passes through their hands to ward off contagion.

State Health Commissioner Samuel C. Dixon will call upon bank officials throughout Pennsylvania to assist him in checking the spread of disease by taking the precaution to fumigate money before it passes out of the bank's hands.

Dr, Dixon has found disease-producing germs on filthy paper money in circulation, and says that undoubtedly many cases of communicable diseases throughout the state must be traceable to infected money.

KEEP THE KIDNYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some People Know How to Save. It.

Many Bellefonte people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill-health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills.

W. R. Camp, of the firm of Kirk-Camp Furniture Co., Logan Ave. and 14th St., Tyrone, Pa., says: "Experience has taught me that Doan's Kidney Pills is an excellent remedy and one that strictly fulfills its promises. In the fall of 1897 I gave for publication in our local papers a statement covering my experience with this remedy and recommending it to others, and now in the month of June, 1904, I just as enthusiastically recommend it as I did at that time. Doan's kidney pills completely relieved me of an aching in the small of my back and lameness through the loins due to kidney trouble. We always keep this preparation in the house for use in case of need, and it has never failed to give splendid satisfaction. I heartily endorse it.

—The few warm, sunshiny days we had last week were tempting some people to discard their heavy clothes, but a friendly warning is not out of place. Don't discard your heavier clothing though it may become a trifle uncomfortable. You can stand it better than you can stand a big doctor bill or a dangerous illness, Perhaps it may appear more strongly to you if you are brought to face the danger of going foolishly into eternity. That might be warmer for some of us than heavy clothing. It is proper to enjoy the balmy days of early spring but it is not profitable to risk health foolishly. Stick to your overshoes, your overcoats, your heavy underwear, your woolen hosiery; protect your body from the tempting breezes, warm but treacherous. You will have plenty of time to dress up in the frills and finery of summertime and you will feel better, work better, eat better and live longer. It's all right to keep cool but it's better to keep your clothing on.
